SVYC spring concerts features young singers from 7 school districts

SELINGSGROVE — The Susquehanna Valley Youth Chorale (SVYC), an educational outreach program of the Susquehanna Valley Chorale, will hold its spring concert, "There Has to be a Song" at 3 p.m. Sunday, April 30, at Selingsgrove Middle School, 401 N. 18th St., Selingsgrove.

The performance will be under the direction of the Music Director Russ Wynn Jr. with piano accompaniment by Coleen Renshaw. Six Susquehanna University music education students are assisting with rehearsals as part of a Choral Methods Class.

This year, the SVYC has included students from eight school districts: Muncy, Lewisburg, Milton, Mifflinburg, Danville, Shikellamy, Selingsgrove and Midd-West. Seven of those school districts will be represented during the spring performance.

"When you whistle a happy tune, there has to be a song," said Wynn. "When you dance like no one is watching, there has to be a song and when you are a young singer with a blossoming talent, there definitely has to be a song."

"Some parents say of their children that they have always been singers. Since they were little, they have walked around the house singing all the time, making up songs, singing as they played, singing to their pets. We are glad they have found a place in the SVYC to enjoy that passion with others. Come hear them sing out their joy and love of making music together."

The ensemble will be performing songs from "Jambo" by Teddy Harrison to "Better When I'm Dancin'" by Meghan Trainor and "Everybody has a Dream" by Billy Joel.

All three ensembles, Preparatory, Camerata and Valley Singers which together represent grades 2-12, will come together to perform works from Rodgers and Hammerstein which will also be featured at the Susquehanna Valley Chorale's Pops Concert in May: "I Whistle A Happy Tune" from

The King and I, "Do-Re-Mi" from The Sound of Music, "So Long, Farewell" from The Sound of Music and "The Farmer and the Cowman" from Oklahoma.

Tickets for the performance are $10 for adults, $5 for youth, and free for children 6 and under and can be purchased at Youth.SVCMusic.org/Tickets/or by calling 570-547-0455.

For information about singing in the SVYC, contact Coleen Renshaw at rensshaw@ptd.net or call 570-765-0637.

Summer camp availability

The Susquehanna Valley Chorale is also accepting applications now through Friday, June 9 for its educational summer day camp, Camp eXpresso, July 17-21 with a free concert on July 22 at the Central Oak Heights Tabernacle in West Milton.

The day camp is an excellent opportunity for young singers to gain the valuable learning tools for expressive and successful stage singing. The camp's staff includes experienced educators as well as local artists who share their tricks of the stage. All campers will practice moving and singing expressively in preparation for a showcase performance in the beautiful outdoor tabernacle. The combination of Central Oak Height's natural beauty and the camp activities will encourage artistic communication and collaboration in a nurturing and engaging environment. This is not just something for kids to do, it is a transformative experience.

"It is challenging to balance the technical demands of singing well with expressing your innermost artistic self," said Valerie Flamini Caldwell, camp director. "This is exactly what we work to accomplish with every child that attends Camp eXpresso."

Information about the camp can be found online at Youth.SVCMusic.org or by contacting Caldwell at 570-259-4244 or email vafc@ptd.net.
